“ Don and Carol were the American Sweethearts. They always put each other first and didn't complain. I saw them laugh a lot and admired their love. The first time that I met them was at the Eastland Senior Swimming Classes 17 years ago.. Both were protected by sunscreen and hats and giggling while they enjoyed their exercise. They were private people, but also warm and welcoming in public and in their home. Carol later joined my monthly girls night out Keeno group. Her most loved gift (besides herself) were shelled pecans that she and Don had prepared. She was known to break out in song when the Jack of Diamonds was played. To this day we speak kindly of her especially when the Jack was played. When it was time to host at her home once a year, Don was always there supporting her and us. She later agreed to help me pray for this precious group of women. I took council with her many times and will forever miss her. Anytime that I brought her home, Don was always faithful to have the lights on and personally come outside to safely escort her in....WOW. They were not braggarts but would humbly share their pictures and trophies and stories about a country that I most likely will never see. This is a tribute to their families as well as to them. The best part of all this is that I will get to enjoy this wonderful couple again one day when I join them in Heaven. I know that Don's sister and niece (and then Carol's brother and mother and all those that passed before them) were truly blessed as I have been. I will miss them until my day comes.
