“ Eleanor was a dear friend of mine. We shared fun times and memories from our children's school and sports activities. She was always upbeat, happy and had a beautiful smile. Numerous times I would be in a store shopping and would hear "Hi Sally" and I would immediately know it was my friend Eleanor. I always left happy after seeing her.
She loved her family.
I am sorry to say I did not know she was so ill, nor did I know she had passed away until today.
My heart felt love and sympathy to all the family. I will miss her.
Love, Sally Hudson

“ Another memory came to me this morning. I was there last year and spent 2 weeks with her and my other aunt. On my last day, we sat next to one another on the couch, she started crying real bad. I remember feeling so sad. You know how you get torn in between 2 places? I wanted to come home, but also didn't want to leave them. That was my last time I would have seen her. My tears flow when I think of this memory.

“ Eleanor was a beautiful woman. She was always smiling. When I lived in Ranger, we would often have coffee. She showed me how to fix a cup of coffee. She would always say, do you want it Boston. We shared our thoughts, concerns and always talked about our children. I was very lucky to have known Eleanor. I know she will be greatly missed. My condolences to her husband, and children. May she R.I.P.

“ My aunt Elly, string, fierce. A woman of resilience. She is my godmother and I have many memories of her. She was always complimenting me, telling me I was smart and beautiful. I tell you it was never a dull moment with her. To some, Ranger may be a boring town, but it has been a second home to me, never boring with my aunt Elly. The streets from Ranger to Eastland will never be the same without her driving them. My sweet aunt, I love you, I miss you, your voice your face. I will forever hold you close until I hold you again. Hug Elaine for me. Forever, your goddaughter, Rachel
